Russian Administrative Machine.

The czar may possess qualities and virtues which, under a happier system, might bear fruit in the prosperity of his people, but he, like his subjects, is crushed by the administrative machine, from which, in Russia, there is no escape. A new czar has as little initiative and is as much at the mercy of permanent officials as is the chief of an English department reading in the house of commons the elaborate evasions of his head clerks. If he were really a despot, it might be well; for a benevolent despot is an excellent thing, but he is no more than the irresponsible head of an evil system which is founded on repression, ignorance, darkness and slavery. The chief object of the Russian bureaucracy, whatever official apologists may say, is to exclude the light; to hold the people in a blind, superstitious obedience; to punish, imprison and banish those who would teach the miserable mujik that he is a man and not a vodka filled beast, that the peasant has his rights as well as the czar and an equal claim to happiness and freedom.

This is why political discussion is forbidden in Russia, why every book which opens the windows of the mind, even though of pure science and philosophy, is prohibited by the censorship and why every unorthodox dissenter who questions the claims of the successor of Ivan and Paul and Catherine to mediate with God for the people is regarded as disloyal and is treated as such. A system like this would never have been tolerated by any race of energy and intelligence, as Englishmen have often taught both popes and kings. But the Slav people, of an oriental type, patient, sluggish, mystic and ignorant beyond all imagination, bear and suffer and allow themselves to be driven, like sheep to the slaughter, into the armies of the czar.—Nineteenth Century.

The Young England Party.

Largely under Disraeli's inspiration the Young England party was formed. He was on terms of close friendship with its leading members, who were young men of the highest rank and distinction. It was at their wish, not less than in pursuance of his own impulse, that Disraeli gave literary expression to their common views and aspirations in the trilogy of political romances, of which, though "Tancred" is said to have been the most highly esteemed by the author, the teaching of "Coningsby" and "Sybil" is by far the more direct and impressive. Its purport has already been indicated. It was to recall the English aristocracy to a realization of the true splendor of their position and the immensity of their responsibilities. It was to imbue them with a passion of pity for the wretchedness and degradation in which multitudes of their fellow countrymen were plunged and to convince them that their power, as the natural leaders of the people, to discover and apply remedies for the prevailing evils had not been lost, had not indeed been [illegible] impaired, either by the reform bill or by the circumstances of its ultimate passage into law.

It would be quite inaccurate to say that these [illegible] a policy. They endeavored to create, or rather to revive, a temper. And they conveyed the confident belief that if that temper were revived and took worthy manifestations in the lives of the aristocracy it would awaken grateful recognition and secure all needful forms of practical support on the part of the masses of the people.—Quarterly Review.

The Motherly Landlady.

A friend of mine changed his boarding place last week, going to one of those houses that advertise home comforts and a motherly landlady, which generally means that she is a person who will pry into one's private affairs and read letters left lying about. This particular landlady happens to regard drinking and smoking as particular devices of the devil, so when my friend began to praise a new brand of tobacco at the dinner table the other night she saw her chance and promptly chipped into the conversation.

"Smoking makes men utterly selfish," she said, as a starter, enunciating her words as if she were sawing ice into symmetrical blocks.

My friend was dazed for a moment, for he had not much experience with people who denounce everything as wrong which they do not personally fancy, but he quickly recovered and answered: "Possibly so, but after all it's a stand off, for abstinence from smoking seems to make people deucedly impolite. Or possibly you indulge a little? So many of the ladies enjoy their cigarettes nowadays."

Then the storm broke.—Boston Post.

Differences.

"They say that human nature is always the same," said the middle aged lady. "But I don't think so."

"What's the reason?" asked her niece.

"Twenty years ago girls read magazines and did needlework. Now they study a road map and learn to use a monkey wrench."—Washington Star.

We Must Sail.

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand as in what direction we are moving. To reach the port of heaven we must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it, but we must sail and not drift nor lie at anchor.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

SOMETIMES the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, puts on heavy clothing and wraps and furs to keep out the cold—to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She is allowing a slight disorder to grow, to become worse, to slowly and surely sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She pays no attention to them. By and by they grow a little worse, but she is used to them then and takes them as a matter of course. By and by, they have grown into dragging pains that occasionally keep her in the house—that occasionally put her to bed. Then she knows what is the matter, but she won't go to a doctor because she knows he will insist on "examinations" and "local treatment." She goes on, with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the same cause. Frequently such symptoms are treated as digestive diseases when the root of the whole matter is the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints," was recognized by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies. Its sale now exceeds the combined sales of all other medicines for women. Its effect is perceptible almost immediately. It relieves pain, allays inflammation, checks debilitating drains, and quickly subdues other distressing symptoms. It makes the organs and their surrounding tissues strong and healthy, thereby correcting displacements and invigorating the whole body.

WOOL AND HIDES.

That there will be an adjustment of tariff schedules at the short session of the present Congress or at an extra session of the next Congress, is now very generally conceded. When that adjustment is made Western Senators and Representatives should see that there is a duty imposed on hides as well as on wool. The original McKinley bill provided for a specific duty of one dollar on hides. This brought Massachusetts leather manufacturers to Washington in force, and their persuasives were sufficient to have the clause imposing a tariff on hides stricken from the bill.

There is not an argument that can be advanced in favor of wool that does not apply with equal force to hides. We do not produce enough of either to supply the home demand, and if an artificial price is to be placed on wool, for the benefit of woolgrowers, it should be placed on hides for the benefit of farmers and cattlemen. Almost every farmer in the country has a half-dozen or more hides to dispose of annually, and if he has to pay an artificial price for his woolens, the woolgrower should assist the farmer by paying an artificial price for his boots. Besides, as one of the objects of a tariff is to provide revenue for the support of the Government, hides are as available for that purpose as wool. As it now is, the manufacturers of wool and leather are protected from foreign competition by a reasonably high tariff, while the producers of wool and hides are afforded no protection, whatever. This is not fair to the woolgrower and farmer, according to the present idea of tariff legislation, and they should be given a share of the protection of which the manufacturer has a monopoly.

Years ago the theory of those who advocated a high tariff was that it gave employment to the people. Then the advocates of that theory believed in letting all the raw material that was offered come into the country free of duty, give employment to the people manufacturing it, and when the wants of our people were supplied, sell the surplus to foreign countries. That theory does not prevail to-day, the Republican idea being to increase the price to home consumers and sell the surplus to foreign customers for less than the home price. This may be right. At any rate every trust in the county favors it and as they are the dominant power in the country, their views, whether right or wrong, will prevail under the next Administration as they have under Mr. Cleveland. However, if the farmers of the West will combine and insist on a tariff on hides as well as on wool, Congress cannot ignore their demands, as they are reasonable. A dollar increase in the price of a hide will add that much to the price of every steer on the range or ranch.

THE NEXT HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

According to the returns which have reached Republican headquarters the political divisions in the next House of Representatives will be composed of 205 gold Republicans, 2 silver Republicans, 138 silver Democrats and 12 Populists, In making this division the Republican Congressional Committee has placed among the Populists Hartman of Montana, Newlands of Nevada and Shafroth of Colorado. Hartman and Shafroth were elected to the present Congress as Republicans on free coinage platforms. When their party declared against free coinage they declared against the party and they were re-elected to Congress by the free coinage men of all parties in their respective districts. Why they should be classed as Populists for adhering to the platforms on which they were elected two years ago as Republicans Mr. Hanna has not explained. Mr. Newlands of Nevada, though classed by the Republicans as a Populist, was elected as a silver Democrat, having defeated J. C. Doughty, Populist, and M. J. Davis, Republican.

There are three gold Democrats, one from New York, one from Pennsylvania and one from Tennessee. There are two silver Republicans, both from North Carolina, and Kansas has four Populists, North Carolina four, Colorado one, and California one Democrat-Populist.

Upon the silver question the divisions are for, free coinage 153, and against free coinage 204. In the present House there are 244 Republicans, 105 Democrats, and 7 Populists. The gold men—Republicans and Democrats—out number the silver men two to one, while in the next Congress the gold men—Republicans and Democrats—will have only 50 majority. This is a decided gain and judging by present indications, if that wave of prosperity does not sweep over the country meantime, goldbugs will be scarce after the election in 1898.

THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNORSHIP.

The proclamation of election, among other things, called for the election of a Lieutenant Governor. The several political conventions made nominations for the office, and C. H. E. Hardin of Humboldt was elected by the Silver-Democrats to the position by an overwhelming majority. Now it is stated that the Attorney General holds that there is no vacancy in the office of Lieutenant Governor and that none has existed since the election of 1894.

It is quite probable that the Attorney General is right, the duties of Governor having devolved upon Lieutenant Governor Sadler at the time of the death of Governor Jones, as the constitution provides. No provision is made for the election of a Lieutenant Governor in such an event, and if Governor Sadler should resign the office of Lieutenant Governor it will not be contended that he could act as Governor.

But why was not this question settled before election and dispense with the farcial proceeding of voting for a man for office in which there was no vacancy? Mr. Hardin received a very large vote, yet it seems he cannot preside in the Senate, and the President pro tem of that body will be next in line of succession to the Governorship and the duties of the office will devolve upon him should Governor Sadler leave the State or be incapaciated from any cause from discharging them.

THE NAPA MURDERER.

Trial of the Assassin of Mrs. Greenwood.

NAPA, Cal., November 17.—The trial of William Roe, alias Moore, went on this morning in the Superior Court before Judge Murphy. Mrs. Julia Myse, for whom Roe worked on a ranch in San Fernando, was called, and she testified that Roe had told her that he had owned a false beard, which he used as a disguise and had destroyed. Sheriff Burr of Los Angeles told how Roe came to make his confession, corroborating the witness Schang, and also describing the trip from Los Angeles to Napa with Roe in custody. Sheriff McKenzie of Napa told of taking Roe by the Greenwood place, corroborating his previous testimony. The belief is fast growing and gaining ground here and is freely expressed that Carl Schmidt, who was examined by a commission of physicians and found insane and was not allowed to testify, is not as crazy as he appears. He is known to be very cunning.

MURDERED HIS FAMILY.

A Man Charged With Causing the Death of His Wife and Five Children.

DENVER, November 17.—Andrew J. Spute was arrested to-day, charged with the murder of his wife and five children on Sunday, October 25th. Spute, who runs a small suburban grocery, took his family boat riding on Smith lake, a small body of water in the southern part of the city. By some means the boat was upset. Spute alone could swim and the others were drowned. Shortly afterward it developed that Mrs. Spute's life was insured for $10,000. This fact prompted the investigation which resulted in the man's arrest to-day. The policy was issued by the Travelers' Life Insurance Company. It is claimed that Spute has been leading a dual life, and his alleged paramour, Miss Nellie Davis, was also arrested to-day.

Death of a Congressman.

SHELBINA, Mo., November 17.—H. P. Giles, Congressman-elect of the First Missouri District, died to-day.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Republican State Committee charge frauds in the election in Tennessee.

The office of the Red Bluff News was burned yesterday morning. The origin of the fire is not known.

Mr. Hanna visited Canton yesterday for the first time since the election and lunched with Mr. McKinley.

Tacoma, Washington, is cut off by floods from communication with the interior. No trains have left the city this week.

Placards have been pasted in the cities of Crete inciting the Mohamedans to engage in a holy war against the Christains.

The Marquis de Lome, Spanish Minister at Washington, says the reports of probable hostilities between the United States and Spain are purely sensational.

Though the water in the Willamette river, Oregon, continues to rise, no further damage from floods is apprehended. Travel has been resumed on the railroads.

The President of the Bohemian Sporting Club of New York has written letters to Corbett and Fitzsimmons offering a purse of $25,000 for a twenty five round contest.

W. J. Bryan was given an evation at Springfield, Missouri, yesterday. He was met at the depot by an enthusiastic crowd and escorted to a hotel by the cheering citizens.

Senator Voorhees of Indiana is said to be suffering from paresis and while his physical condition is not alarming his mental condition is such as to leave little hope of his recovery.

No news is obtainable at Havana from General Weyler and his army, supposed to be in pursuit of the insurgents under Maceo, and insurgents are circulating reports of Spanish defeat.

The commission appointed to ascertain the relative merits of Santa Monica and San Pedro for a deep water harbor will meet at Los Angeles December 2d. The commission expects to spend the winter in Southern California.

McKinley's majority in Minnesota is over 50,000, and the Republican candidate for Governor is elected by 3,456 majority. There was an increase of 44,000 votes in the State since the last election.

The trial of William Roe, alias Moore, for murder is progressing at Napa, California. The evidence against Moore is very damaging. He confessed that he was guilty of murder, but retracted what he had admitted.

Fifteen colored men were cutting stave timber for the Standard Oil Company near Puducah, Ky. Their camp was surrounded in the night by white men and fired upon. Several of the negroes were wounded but none killed.

Felix Rountree and John and Lawson Sutton had some words at McLeod's, Georgia. John Sutton knocked Rountree down with a piece of iron. Rountree fired and mortally wounded both the Sutton's. As Rountree walked off he was shot in the back by some unknown person and mortally wounded. All were respectable and highly connected.

A man named Breckman has been hurried from the Bender settlement to the Oswego jail in Kansas to save him from being lynched for outraging and murdering his daughter. The neighbors found the girl in her father's barn in an unconscious condition, he having beaten her into insensibility. She died during the day and an angry mob was prevented by the Sheriff from lynching Breckman.

John Mirk, a miser aged 72 years, lives alone at Cleveland, Ohio. He was credited with having a large amount of money in his house and burglars broke into it. He refused to tell where the money was and was brutally beaten, bound and gagged and a burning lamp applied to his feet until the flesh was literally roasted. The blaze was then applied to his body until he became unconscious, in which condition he was found yesterday morning.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

WATSON'S LETTER.

Why Chairman Butler Did Not Give It to the Public Before Election.

Senator Marion Butler, Chairman of the Populist National Committee, has made public the following letter, which he addressed to Mr. Watson two days after the receipt of his letter of acceptance:

WASHINGTON (D. C.), Oct. 26, 1896.

Hon. Thomas E. Watson, Thompson, Ga.—DEAR SIR: Your letter of acceptance was received Saturday night. It had been detained in the postoffice for want of sufficient postage.

You, in effect, advise Populists not to support the joint electoral tickets that have been arranged in a large number of States. Is it possible that you fully appreciate the effect of such advice? At least, upon reflection, you must know that if enough Populists should follow such advice it would mean the defeat of Bryan and the election of McKinley. Besides, if your advice should be followed by enough Populists, the People's party would not have a single Elector in the Electoral College. In the States where we have joint electoral tickets we will get every Elector; and, besides, it is in those States where we will get the bulk, if not all, of the People's party Congressmen. In your own State and other States which have followed your advice against electoral tickets we will not get a single Elector, and I fear not many Congressmen, if any.

You certainly cannot mean, however much you may have favored a middle-of-the-road policy in the beginning, to advise your friends to do that which at this time would be the most effective agency in placing in power McKinley and his backers—the trusts and monopolies.

Can any personal or party injustice, however great, justify us in being responsible, either directly or indirectly, for placing in power the stock jobbers, monopolists, trusts, the British gold ring and all the combined robbers of the people and enemies of good government?

In the name of outraged and suffering humanity, whose prayers to-day go up from millions of homes for William J. Bryan in his heroic and marvelous struggle against the minions of corporate greed and the hellish gold conspiracy, let us sink every other consideration and hold up his hands and do the full duty of Americans and patriots. Let us remember that it is a suffering people and a betrayed Republic, and not Democratic politicians, that to-day call for our help and demand our services. Bryan will be elected and the Government redeemed if every patriot does his duty. Let us do ours. Therefore I beseech you to change at least that part of your letter which gives advice, which if followed, would surely disrupt the common family. If you do not, then you yourself must assume the responsibility of giving such a document to the public at this time. Yours truly,

MARION BUTLER.

Wright Convicted.

The case of C. H. Wright, charged with misdemeanor for marking a ballot and passing it over the partition to another man in an adjoining booth on election day was on trial in Judge Linn's court yesterday before a jury. District Attorney Norcross prosecuted the case and Attorney Julien appeared for the defendant.

Several witnesses were examined for both sides and the case was given to the jury at 5 o'clock and after being out about twenty minutes returned a verdict of guilty as charged. The defendant was ordered to appear in court this morning at 10 o'clock for sentence.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store. Regular size, 50 cts. and $1.

AN IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. MORTGAGED PROSPERITY.

We Have Had Enough of it—We Now Want Unincumbered Prosperity.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Tom Reed says, "we should restore confidence and become a country of borrowers and then we would be prosperous."

This is the same Tom Reed that voted to insert the gold clause in U. S. bonds so as to make them more acceptable to the international bondholders. He also wants all borrowers to pay their debts on a gold basis, but he fails to state how it can be done. Possibly his way out of the difficulty would be for the people to refund their obligations and extend the time of payment from one generation to another and, in the language of Stephen A. Douglas, resolve that they will be honest though they never pay a cent.

If anyone doubts that the obligations of the people are not increasing out of all proportion with their ability to pay on a gold basis let them refer to the liability of savings banks to depositors for the past thirty years. In 1866 there were upwards of $1,000,000,000 of currency in the United States. At that time the savings banks owed depositors less than $500,000,000 which was payable in a currency that was not even redeemable in coin. In 1895 the savings banks of the United States owed depositors $1,810,597,023, which the advocates of the gold standard say ought to be paid in gold or its equivalent. Our total supply of gold coin, according to the Director of the Mint and whose estimate is doubtless too high, is about $600,000,000 or about one-third of what the savings banks owe depositors and less than one-seventh of what all the banks owe on deposit account. This alone seems like a pretty heavy strain on our stock of gold, but when we add the $6,000,000,000 of real estate mortgages and the $6,000,000,000 of railroad debts the strain on the gold standard becomes appalling and ought to convince the most hidebound goldbug that the inevitable result of the gold standard will be either universal bankruptcy or wholesale repudiation.

Tom Reed's method of restoring prosperity by increasing our borowing capacity is not the kind of prosperity that will last. The way to bring genuine prosperity is to increase our paying capacity. This can be done by abolishing the gold standard and placing the extortioners under proper restraint and by the General Government issuing and putting in circulation a sufficient volume of legal tender.

We have had mortgaged prosperity long enough. What we now want is the genuine article free from incumbrances. FARMER.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters. Fifty cents and $1 per bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

The Horse Show.

Professor Bristol's troupe of trained horses closed a successful season of three performances at McKissick's Opera House last evening. They gave two exhibitions yesterday, a matinee at which the children turned out in full force and filled the house to overflowing, and another in the evening to a smaller audience, but one that fully appreciated the performances of the clever animals.

Elected to Congress.

The McLeansboro (Illinois) Times of November 13th contains the returns for Congressman in the Twentieth, Illinois, District. The opposing candidates were J. R. This certifies that I have been using V. O. in my practice. I have never found any medical preparation in 46 years of practice that is calculated to do so much good in so wide a range of diseases and leave no after bad effects. In Diphtheria it has proved a perfect specific in my hands, and I had rather depend on it alone in that dreadful disease than the whole popular Materia Medica with that left out.

MODERN PRISONS.

Their Very Improvements Are What Drive English Convicts Mad.

The official belief is that there is little or no prison made insanity. Prison doctors are keenly alive to the possibility of shamming, and they hesitate to admit that there is any flaw in the system for the administration of which they are so largely responsible. Still the fact remains that the ratio of insanity in prisons has exactly doubled since 1877.

The admitted general increase of insanity is not sufficient to account for this startling fact. Prison discipline is now more mechanical, and therefore more depressing. Its very improvements in this respect "take the heart out of a man." It is probable that prisoners were far happier is the old unreformed prisons, when they herded together and had companionship of a kind.

An expert witness who had passed four and twenty years in jail told the prison committee some startling things from the convict's point of view. The rules, he said, are too minute for human observance, and some minds are totally unable to bear the strain of them. A man may be reported for knocking something over in his cell, though it may be by pure accident. The name for this offense is "unnecessary noise." As the poor wretches walk their weary round in the exercise yard one may fall out of step and thus throw the others out. The first offender or the last—any one, in fact, on whom the warder's eye happens to fall—is liable to punishment for this mischance.

In this way the convict gradually acquires an expression that never leaves him—the round the corner glance of a being who dreads a tyrant on the pounce. We want a new Howard if the system is only half as bad as it is said to be by those who have best reason to know.—London News.

Hot Bread Fad.

"Do you know," asked a policeman, "what that crowd of young society people is doing at the bakery over there?"

It was just before midnight in the west end, and a group of young folk had gone, chatting merrily, into the door of a large bakery.

"They will wait there," continued the bluecoat, "until the first batch of bread is taken out of the oven, which occurs about 12 o'clock. Hot bread lunches seem to be getting all the rage among the smart set, for every night about this time group after group go up to the door of the bakery and procure the freshly baked bread, so hot that it scorches the paper. They take it to their houses, and there it is eaten with plentiful spreading of butter and preserves. To be thoroughly enjoyed it must not be cut, but pulled apart with the fingers."—Washington Times.

Wellington on the Defeat at Ligny.

Next morning Wellington was conversing with General Bowles when a staff officer drew up, his horse flecked with foam, and whispered the news of Ligny. Without a change of countenance, the commander said to his companion: "Old Blucher has had a —— good licking, and gone back to Wavre, 18 miles. As he has gone back, we must go too. I suppose in England they will say we have been licked. I can't help it; as they have gone back, we must go too."—William M. Sloane in Century.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

I did not dare to eat meat or warm bread, very few vegetables, for fear of the great distress food caused me. I experienced relief right after commencing to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. My appetite increased, I gained in general health and strength. I can eat almost anything now without discomfort. Although I had been an invalid for twenty years, I can truthfully say that I am better than for a long time. I never weighed so much in my life." MRS. EMILY F. THE SARATOGA HOP.

WILLIAM D. HOWELLS DESCRIBES THE GAY FUNCTION.

It Was Pleasant Enough For the Young Dancers, but the Chaperon Withered Away Among Moldering Mothers—Emotions of the Young and the Not Young.

Mr. W. D. Howells' novelette "An Open Eyed Conspiracy," in The Century, contains the following description of that important social function, a Saratoga hop:

She and the evening were equally fitted for the event to which they seemed equally dedicated. The dancing was to be out of doors on a vast planking, or platform, set up in the heart of that bosky court which the hotel incloses. Around this platform drooped the slim, tall Saratogan trees, and over it hung the Saratogan sky, of a nocturnal blue very rare in our latitude, with the stars faint in its depths, and by and by a white moon that permitted itself a modest competition with the electric lights effulgent everywhere. There was a great crowd of people in the portico, the vestibule and the inner piazzas and on the lawn around the platform, where "the trodden weed" sent up the sweet scent of bruised grass in the cool night air. My foolish old heart bounded with a pulse of youth at the thought of all the gay and tender possibilities of such a scene.

But the young people under my care seemed in no haste to mingle in it. We oldsters are always fancying youth impatient, but there is no time of life which has so much patience. It behaves as if it had eternity before it—an eternity of youth—instead of a few days and years and then the frosty pow. We who are young no longer think we would do so and so if we were young, as women think they would do so and so if they were men, but if we were really young again we should not do at all what we think.

We should not hurry to experience our emotions; we should not press forward to discharge our duties or repair our mistakes; we should not seize the occasion to make a friend or reconcile an enemy; we should let weeks and months go by in the realization of a passion and trust all sorts of contingencies and accidents to help us out with its confession. The thoughts of youth are very long, and its conclusions are deliberate and delayed and often withheld altogether. It is age which is tremulously eager in these matters and cannot wait with the fine patience of nature in her growing moods.

As soon even as I was in the hotel I was impatient to press through to the place where the dancing was, and where I already heard the band playing. I knew very well that when we got there I should have to sit down somewhere on the edge of the platform with the other frumps and fogies and begin taking cold in my dress coat and want to doze off without being able to, while my young people were waltzing together or else promenading up and down, ignoring me or recognizing me by the offer of a fan and the question whether I was not simply melting. I have seen how the poor chaperon fares at such times. But they, secure of their fun, were by no means desirous to have it over or even to have it begin. They dawdled through the thronged hotel office, where other irresponsible pairs were coming and going under the admiring eyes of the hotel loungers, and they wandered up and down the waste parlors and sat on tete-a-tetes just to try them apparently, and Miss Gage verified in the mirrors the beauty which was reflected in all eyes. They amused themselves with the extent of the richly carpeted and upholstered desolation around them, where only a few lonely and aging women lurked about on sofas and ottomans, and they fell to playing with their compassion for the plebeian spectators at the long veranda windows trying to penetrate with their forbidden eyes to the hop going on in the court far beyond the intermediary desert of the parlors.

When they signified at last that they were ready for me to lead them on to the dance, I would so much rather have gone to bed that there are no words for the comparison. Then, when we got to the place, which I should never have been able to reach in the world if it had not been for the young energy and inspiration of Kendricks, and they had put me in a certain seat with Miss Gage's wraps beside me where they could find me, they went off and danced for hours and hours. For hours and hours? For ages and ages, while I withered away amid moldering mothers and saw my charges through the dreadful half dreams of such a state whirling in the waltz, hopping in the polka, sliding in the galop and then endlessly walking up and down between the dances and eating and drinking the chill refreshments that it made my teeth chatter to think of.

I suppose they decently came to me from time to time, though they seemed to be always dancing, for I could afterward remember Miss Gage taking a wrap from me now and then, and quickly coming back to shed it upon my lap again. I got so chilled that if they had not been unmistakably women's wraps I should have bundled them all about my shoulders, which I could almost hear creak with rheumatism. I must have fallen into a sort of drowse at last, for I was having a dispute with some sort of authority, which turned out to be Mrs. March, and upbraiding her with the fact that there were no women's wraps which would also do for a man, when the young people stood arm in arm before me, and Miss Gage said that she was tired to death now, and they were going.
